and colored voters in the new Congress-

This is an eminently satisfactory show ing. The majorities in these Districts. with the exception of the Second and Seventh, are trivial, even according to the census, and can easily be overcome. In the Second District there are a large number of Democratic negroes, so that it is very safe for the Democrats. More than this, the registration of voters gives us a clear Democratic majority in most of the Districts-we believe in all, except the Seventh. As at present arranged we will get six out of the seven Congressmen.

THE EGYPTIAN WAR.

As will be seen from an article elsewhere, the Egyptians defending Alexandria raised a flag of truce in 48 hours after the bombardment began, and pending negotiations Aribi Pasha's forces withdrew from the city, leaving it in the hands of the Beduoins and liberated convicts who sacked the city, murdered large numbers of the foreign settlers in the city, burned large districts of the city and committed innumerable outrages of every description. When the English discovered the condition of affairs they immediately landed, and began putting down the disorders with an iron hand. Murderers and house burners were shot, and rogues lashed. The Khedive united with the English in trying to restore order, and things are now being conducted in an orderly manner. Aribi Pasha, with his army of five or six thousand men, has withdrawn to the interior of Egypt, and for the present things are in a very unsettled condition. War may be ended soon, or it may be slowly dragged along for months. If no other powers become involved the consequences will not be serious in its effects upon European markets, but if the great powers become involved a tremendous conflict will ensue. This, better this year than usual. The scenes in Alexandria have been fearful. Its English bombardment.

THE DEMOCRACY'S DANGER It cannot be otherwise than a source of regret to every thoughtful Democrat to see in different portions of our State more or less of controversy and faction manifesting itself in the Democratic Clubs. Unless this spirit is checked, the end of Democratic ascendancy in South Carolina is not far distant. Factions weakened the Republican party a few years ago to such an extent that although they had a majority of forty thousand torial nomination. This letter ought, in voters, their party by schism and lack of our opinion, to induce the public to look unity of action, lost the State government, and have not yet been able to recover it. With this practical lesson as to the result of divisions, the Democratic party respect a most desirable candidate for ought to avoid the rock upon which the Republican majority was wrecked. In all dissensions one or the other party is | ing and its strict impartiality, its fairness apt to be wrong in the beginning, but as and its ability. His record upon the a general thing if the other party does Bench is equal to the best for dignity, not assume a mistaken position, the dissension is not apt to extend very far. Most commonly both sides in a controversy are apt to take indefensible ground in some part of the dispute, and there is larity. It is not to be wondered that he the point where crimination and recrimination begin. In politics there is but for this position, but we think where so one safe rule to govern our actions, and that is the right of a majority legitimate- ing to serve as Governor that it would ly and fairly exercised to rule. The majority of to-day, however, may be the minority of to-morrow, and the very existence of political ascendancy in South lace is doing the State very excellent Carolina depends upon the principle of service, and for public and personal reabearing and forbearing, which will make sons he prefers to remain in his present the members of the party willing to yield their personal views and wishes to those of the majority, trusting to the not have his services as Governor, we are vindication of time, and those changes in opinion which are sure to make things getting them is that he is now where he even sooner or later. In difficulties like can serve us better. Judge Wallace those which have occurred in some parts of the State, the advocates of both sides | To the Editor of the News and Courier : are more than likely to be excited and act with very little deliberation. Things are said that are useless and unkind—that only fen instead of heating the breach. Two much pride of opinion and love of victory are permitted to enter into men's opinions, and actions are taken which to outsiders are useless, if not ridiculous, and nine times out of ten upon sober reflection in cooler moments are regretted by the participating particular of the News and Courser:

We hope in future that all differences between Democrats in South Carolina may be averted. We have fighting enough to do against our common enemy, and it is most unfortunate to waste our strength in quarrels with each other. Unity of purpose is not enough. It requires also unity of action to defeat the Republicans in South Carolina. It is better for us to yield our preferences as to some things, than to risk losing the control of South Carolina. At 1 resent the Democracy is in no danger, but if the local disconsions are continued it is only a question of time as to when these troubles will distract our tinued it is only a question of time as to when these troubles will distract our counties and the State itself. "Let there be no divisions among you," is an injunction which may well be given to the junction which may well be given to the convention for Governor.

The Club meetings to be held next Saturday are very important in their results to the Democracy of the County. who can do so will attend the meeting of the Club to which he belongs.

Senator Hampton says that he cannot serve as President of the South Carolina University, even if he should be elected to that position. This announcement will make the selection of Col. Thompson for the Presidency very certain.

The split in the Republican party of gives the following summary of white Pennsylvania has not been healed, although the most strenuous efforts have been made to secure a settlement. The result is that the Regulars and the Independents are fighting one another as hard as they are fighting the Democrats, and the consequence is that the Democracy stand a good chance to carry the State this Fall for the first time in many years. If Pennsylvania should be wrested from the Camerons and turned over to the Democrats, we would elect the next President with all case. In that event it would not be difficult to name him, for Gen. Hancock would be the man

The County Executive Committee has requested the Democratic Clubs at their meeting on next Saturday to do three very important things: 1st. To elect one delegate to the County Convention for every twenty-five members of the Club as ascertained by the Club list of 1880; 2nd. To elect a member of the County Executive Committee from each Club; and, 3rd. To instruct their delegates to the County Convention to vote for the Majority or the Piurality plan of nominating candidates, as the Club may prefer. These are important matters, and should be attended to by as full meetings as possible. To this end every Democrat should attend his Club meeting and vote as his judgment dictates.

Judge Pressley has decided that in all appeals from Trial Justices in criminal or civil cases the case is to be tried upon the evidence as sent up by the Trial Justice, and that the appealing party is not entitled to have a new trial in the sense of offering new evidence or swearing witnesses on the appeal. This decision makes it important in all cases before Trial Justices to have the evidence properly taken down and fully reported. It has a great advantage to the country, however, in not requiring a host of witnesses to be brought to the Court House and kept here a week waiting for some trivial appeal from the Trial Justice Court to be called in the Court of Common Pleas. This will save the various counties hundreds of dollars every year.

According to the report of the Supervisor of Registration, the white majority in Marion county is 1,058. The Marion however, is not probable. As it is, the | Star says: "So Democracy is safe in Ma-Egyptian supply of cotton will be mate- | cion, if the Democrats themselves don't rially diminished by the demoralization kill it by divisions and quarrels in their of the agriculture and the destruction of own family." Divisions sympathizing with her people, who are in our ranks are fraught with the most suffering a thousand fold more from the serious consequences and dangers to our treachery of Aribi Pasha than from the material and political presperity. Our people should in every part of the State

A dispatch from Atlanta, dated Monday last, says: "Senator Hill is worse. He had to take his food through a tube It is to be hoped that every Democrat | yesterday. His death may occur at any moment and great anxiety exists."

> The New York Times admits that "the new South Carolina method of controlling the negro vote has at least this merit, that it keeps on the windy side of the law." This is precisely the merit that it possesses. If the elections in South Carolina are conducted according to law honestly, the great stock in trade of the Republican party will be taken away from it. Whenever the elections in the Fouth are freed from the suspicion of tissue ballots and tampering with the ballot bex, the North will care very little as to the result. It cannot complain of our laws when they are more liberal to tion adopted by the negroes, and if they do not suit the Republicans they know very well that there is no capital in them for their party. It is the violation of the election laws, and not their terms that the Northern people have complained of, and hence it is natural that the Republicans growl at an electoral system which keeps on "the windy side

POLITICAL PROBLEMS.

The Best Mode of Nominating Candidates and Forming Democratic Conventions.

Columbia, July 13.—Two days since I gave a partial list of the candidates for some of the important offices in this State coupled with vague predictions as to who would be the successful competitors for the different positions. There Is no change in the attitude of affairs, so far as I am able to judge, but there are several questions of importance connected with the manner of making the mominations for Congressmen which are just now enor Congressmen which are just now engaging the attention of the public mind and are producing considerable discuss-ion throughout the State.

During the recent extra session of the foneral Assemble.

General Assembly I was asked by a number of influential members of that body to urge the adoption of the primary plan of making nominations, especially with regard to Congressmen. It is claimed that in this way the real wishes mumber of influential members of that body to urge the adoption of the primary plan of making mominations, especially with regard to Congressmen. It is claimed that in this way the real wishes of the people could be more certainly ascertained, and that the condition received as the people could be more certainly ascertained, and that the condition received as the proposed to a question of personal and parliamentary privilege, and called attention to a passage printed in the Record as purporting they could by interesting the vocal to the Muse obtain. Conting straight feed, the Muse of the two pleases of trickery and fraud to the Safera crop on ges of trickery and fraud to be fair a crop on ges of members of the Legislature have-filosy made since 1876 by the primary plan, only the best results have been obtained and the unity of the party most successfully preserved. No other plan has succeeded so well. No other plan could have so firmly welded the people together, and if, in the selection of candidates to fill the county offices the primary plan has worked so admirably, there is no good reason why it should not also operate with enual acceptability upon a larger good reason why it should not also operate with equal acceptability upon a larger scale and in cases where more important interests are involved. To be sure the political canvass would be made more lively and the candidates for Congressional honors would have to give better evidence of their fitness for office, but just in this very way would the interests of the country be better subserved and the strength of the party more firmly established.

If the candidates for Congress should to comparatively few of their constitu-ents, and more than half of the blunders that they have committed may be traced to their ignorance of the necessities of the people.

I do not see how it is possible to adopt the primary plan of nominating Congressmen for the next election. No plan has yet been agreed upon, and it would take a great deal of time and cause some delay to arrange all the details necessary for the proper caudict of the elections. for the proper conduct of the elections under this plan. It would be well, how-ever, for the State Convention in August to take this whole matter under consideration and adopt such actions as may be deemed best for the party and the State. A NEW BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

A NEW BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

There is another matter which is worthy of some attention. According to the constitution of the Democratic party each county is entitled to representation in the State Convention in proportion to its representation in both branches of the General Assembly. There is a feeling in favor of changing this rule and making the Democratic vote in the different countries, the hasts of representation in the oral Assembly. There is a feeling in favor of changing this rule and making the Democratic vote in the different counties the basis of representation in the State Convention. According to the present rule counties which have the smallest Democratic strength are entitled to equal representation in the nominating convention with counties which have the greatest Democratic strength. Borkeley County, for instance, with a total Democratic strength of less than three hundred voters, has a right to send two more delegates to the State Convention than Anderson County, where the registered strength of the Democracy is greatly in excess of the Republican vote. The same statement of facts will apply to many other counties in the State, which are represented in the conventions of the party not in proportion to the number of Democratic voters but according to their total population. It is reasonable that in shaping the policy and in choosing the candidates of the party the counties which do most to secure a Democratic victory should be entitled to the largest representation. The voting strength of the party, and not the total population in the different counties, should be the basis of representation in the conventions of the party. There are a number of excellent Democratis in Berkeley and Beaufort Counties, but there are not enough of them.

The Constitution of the party should be changed in this important particular. I have favored such a policy for years, and the exceeding fairness of the proposition must strike every one with great force. There can be some more equitable basis of representation than that which at present exists.—J. C. H. in News and Courier.

— Rumor has it that President Garfield was sorely troubled with remorse during his last hours on account of the part he took in the great fraud of '76. During his life be reconciled his conscience to the part he played in cheating Tilden out of the presidency by the fact he was sent to Louisana as a lawyer, and not as a judge, but on his death-bed he became very penitent for what he regarded as the one great stain on his public career, and referred to some suppressed public documents and testimony which would serve to intigate his participancy in this great wrong. His personal and political friends who heard these death-bed confessions determined for the party's good to keep allow my name to go before the Convention for nomination for Governor.

who heard these death-bed confessions determined for the party's good to keep them an inviolable secret. But the matter finally leaked out through the dissatting of one of the dectors, who thought injustice had been done him about his bill.

The Death of Mrs. Lincoln.

Springerield, Ill., July 16.—Mrs. Lincoln, widow of the late President, died in this city at a quarter past's o'clock to night. She had been ill for a long time. A few days ago she grew worse, on Saturday evening she suffered a shock of paralysis, and from that time lay in a comatose state till she died.

A Munificent Gift.

Ex-Gov. Joseph E. Brown has made a which induced its passage, and is pre-cisely the merit which the Times regrets that it passages. If the elections in pay board at Athens. The conditions are that the State Legislature guarantee seven per cent, on the money, which is to be in-vested in Georgia bonds, as are the other moneys of the University, as is provided by the present law, the interest on this by the present law, the interest on this sum to be given -82,300 to the college at Athens and $1,000 per annum to Dahlonega. The students at the Augusta Medical College may also take advantage of the gift. The money is to be loaned at four per cent, to indigent young men, and when returned will be covered, principal and interest, into the original amount. The trustees unanimously accepted the offer, and Gov. Brown will sign a check as soon as the Legislature provides for the bonds. The sum is given in the name of Charles MeDonald Brown, the dead son of the Senator, a part of which was his private fortune. This is which was his private fortune. This is the largest donation ever made to the University.

Lynching in Kershaw.

CAMPEN, July 17 .- On last Wednesday night an attempt was made to commit a rape in the northern part of Kershaw County—The cries of the victim attracted attention, pursuit was made, and circum-stances pointed to a negro boy named bavid Cook, who lived near by. He was David Cook, who lived near by. He was arrested on Saturday morning and was committed to jail. While being conveyed to Camden, in charge of two deputies, and when about five and a half miles from Camden, a parry of masked men emerged from the woods and took the pisoner from the custody of the constatoles. Up to a late hour to-day I had not been able to learn further particulars. I understand to-night, however, that the body of the prisoner was found to-day hanging from a tree several miles above the place where the prisoner was taken from custody. The prisoner acknowledged that he was guilty of the crime edged that he was guilty of the crime charged against him, and further stated that this was not the first case of the kind in which he had been engaged. There is no excitement manifested here concern ing the matter, and very little interest is displayed by the people in the section where the tragedy occurred.

More Personalties in Congress.

Pistols without Coffee.

RIGHMOND, VA., July 15.

The former was seriously lie highway, in Lunenburg county, in this State. The parties are Joseph Addison, a Baltimore drummer, and Richard darhand. The former was seriously if not fatally wounded, and the latter painfully in the wrist. The trouble, it is said, grew out of a misunderstanding about a lady in the county. Yesterday Garland sent his brother-in-law to Addison. He was requested to meet Garland in the public highway at a place named, and to take friends with him to see fair play. In accordance with this request, Addison, accombanied by three friends. if not fatally wounded, and the latter painfully in the wrist. As soon as Addison came within striking distance, Garland struck at him with his fist, but his antagonist warded off the blow. Garland then drew his revolver and Addison followed suit. The latter fired and struck Garland in the wrist, breaking the bone. Garland opened fire and discharged all four chambers of his weapon, one shot striking Addison in the groin and lodging in the back. After emptying all the barrels of his pistol, Garland called upon his brother-in-law, Boswell, who stood near by with a pistol cocked and pointed at Addison, for another weapon. Addison demurred to this and exclaimed that his own weapon would not go off, and that he had no other. Before the fight could be renewed their friends separated them. Addison's condition is critical, and he will probably die. A warrant-was issued for the arrest of Garland. All the parties are highly connected—Dispatch to the Sunday News.

BENJ. WILSON, West Virginia.

"Nine of these members of the House of Representatives call themselves Democrates. The other one, Ladd, of Maine, calls himself, we believe, a Greenback-Democrat; he was elected by Democratic votes. The reason why the list in black type should be attentively studied and tenaciously renembered is that it records ten Democratic votes lent to Secor Robeson to help him defeat the persistent resistance of honest Democrats to the scheme of plunder conveyed in his Naval Appropriation bill. When the time comes for electing the Forty-eighth Congress these ten so-called Democrats should be left at home. They are not to be trusted."

The names of three of the South Carolina members are on the list, and it is due to their constituents and to them that what is said of their conduct shall be known, and that they have an opportunity to explain their desertion of their colleagues at such a time and under such circumstances.—News and Courier.

— Alexandria, Egypt, was founded in the year B. C. 222 by Alexander the Great. In the days of her ancient glory she was a city of 300,000 inhabitants. When the city was captured by the Saracens in 640 the Alexandrian Library was burned and its inestimably precious treasures were used as fuel, their abundance being so great that they sufficed to heat the 4,000 baths of the city for six months. The discovery of a route to India by way of the Cape of Good Hope was fatal to her commercial power, but after a lapse of 1,000 years she regained what she had lost by the opening of the Sucz Canal. Hard fortune has again been brought to this city of 2,104 years, and within the past few days it has suffered a ruin as complete as any which has before overtaken it since its founding.
